13. There’ s always hope

Last year, I failed my math exam badly. I felt so sad and hopeless that I didn’ t want to study anymore. My teacher noticed my problem and gave me a hand. She spent extra time helping me after school, explaining difficult problems patiently. With her help, I slowly got out of difficulty and regained my confidence. This experience taught me that when we face setbacks, we should never lose hope. There is always hope if we try our best and accept help from others.
